About the Program

Baylor in Maastricht is Baylor’s oldest study-abroad program in Europe with a year-round presence. As the oldest city in the Netherlands, Maastricht provides the cultural immersion and European setting for a long semester or part of a summer of unforgettable study and travel.

An ancient saying suggests that it is better to travel 10,000 miles than to read 10,000 books. We believe both travel AND books are essential to maximizing college education. The Baylor in Maastricht program combines both.

Through the Maastricht program students have the opportunity to study under both European and Baylor professors. In addition, students are able to travel to major European cities, such as Madrid, Amsterdam, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome and Florence thanks to a Eurail Pass which is good in 22 European countries from the Mediterranean all the way to the Arctic Circle.

This program is designed in cooperation with the Center for European Studies (CES) at Maastricht University (UM) in the Netherlands, ensuring the best possible education in the best possible setting.

Students will choose 1 course taught by Baylor faculty and 1 CES course taught by Dutch professors. All courses are taught in English.

Why Go To Maastricht?

- Covers tuition and fees for 6-7 credit hours. All courses taught in English. Automatic BU credit.
- Double-occupancy rooms (Bring a friend and choose your roommate!)
- Meal plan included in program fee (2 meals per day). Cash meal allowance when traveling.
- Group trip to Delft and Amsterdam
- 1-month Eurail pass valid in 22 countries for free train travel on long weekends (classes meet M-Th only) and during designated travel periods.
- Wireless Internet, health insurance, CES textbooks.
- Be in Waco for football, basketball, and Sing.

About Maastricht University
Established in 1976, Maastricht University (UM) is the youngest university in The Netherlands. Maastricht University currently educates over 12,000 students and employs more than 3,000 people. Maastricht University has an “urban campus.” All faculties (University departments) are housed in beautiful historic buildings in downtown Maastricht within walking distance from one another.

The Center for European Studies (CES) is a division of Maastricht University which deals with the large number of international students enrolled. Students come from all over the world. One in four students at UM has an international background.

About Maastricht, the Netherlands
The city of Maastricht is located in the southernmost Dutch province of Limburg and is a “melting pot” of Dutch, French, and German cultures. Although spoken languages of Dutch, French, and German are commonplace, some 70 percent of the Dutch also speak English.

Maastricht has played an increasingly important role in Europe in the late 20th Century. The European Council meeting in December 1991, which led to the now famous Maastricht Treaty of the European Union, is one of many indications of the city’s commitment to an international role.

The history of Maastricht dates back to 50 BC, when the Romans built a settlement near a ford in the Maas River. Today Maastricht has a population of 120,000, and because of the city’s rich heritage, the whole city-center has been declared a “protected area.”

The Program Director
Susan Etheredge is a Baylor graduate and has been teaching Finance for 12 years. She first travelled abroad as an student from Baylor to Seinan Gakuin University in Fukuoka, Japan for a year. After her life changing experience abroad, she changed her major to Foreign Service and then went on to earn a Masters in International Management. After graduation, she began a career in international banking and corporate finance for major multinational corporations with operations in numerous countries, primarily in Asia and Europe. The Netherlands is at the top of the list of her favorites European countries. The culture, history, beauty of the countryside and friendly, open nature of the Dutch people have drawn her back to the country several times. She will be accompanied by her husband, Joe, who also accompanied her when she served in the BGB program in 2011.
